THE BAR MODEL

THE BAR MODEL is a practical, visual tool that students can use to help solve word problems.

It is fully integrated into PRIME Mathematics resources.

Why don't you try some of these 'book' problems with your class?

Oliver is reading a book with 87 pages in it. So far, he has read 53 pages. How many more pages does he have to read?

$$87 - 53 = 34$$

Oliver has 34 more pages to read.

Max borrowed 3 times as many books from the library as Amy. Jack borrowed half as many books as Amy. Amongst the three children, they borrowed 72 books. How many books did Amy borrow?

$$9 \text{ units} \rightarrow 72$$

$$1 \text{ unit} \rightarrow 72 \div 9 = 8$$

$$2 \text{ units} \rightarrow 8 \times 2 = 16$$

Amy borrowed 16 books.

METHOD

Problem solving made easier!

Instead of jumping straight into numbers and operations, students use bar models to visualise and clarify number relationships—like part-whole, comparison, or proportional reasoning. Bar models help students see how quantities relate to each other. For example, in a word problem involving addition or subtraction, the bars can show parts and wholes clearly.

LASTIC

Mia surveyed her class for the number of fiction and non-fiction books they read in the last month. She found that her classmates read 273 fiction books and 87 fewer non-fiction books. How many non-fiction did Grace's class read? How many books did they read altogether?

$273 - 87 = 186$
Grace's class read 186
non-fiction books last month.

$273 + 186 = 459$
Grace's class read 459
books altogether.

Billi read one third of a 180 page book on Monday and three quarters of the remaining pages on Tuesday. How many pages did she have left to read?

1 unit $\rightarrow 180 \div 3 = 60$
2 units $\rightarrow 60 \times 2 = 120$
There were 120 pages to read after Monday.
1 unit $\rightarrow 120 \div 4 = 30$
There were 30 pages left to read.
